

Postal Service May Use The Corps of Engineers

By JOSEPH YOUNG

To this end a test program involving postal facilities in Baltimore, Fairfax County, St. Louis, Memphis, and Kearney, N.J., has been undertaken.

• Ostensibly use of the Corps of Engineers by the Postal Service would cut expenses. The Postal Service is to be run on virtually a self-sustaining basis, and officials are making every effort to economize.

Financial arrangements with the Corps of Engineers and the fate of postal employees involved in engineering construction and real estate work have not been worked out.

The employes naturally are concerned over their futures.
